

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

Monday, April 24

2000

Space Shuttle Atlantis to launch 4:15 p.m. EDT Mon.

Shuttle Atlantis is set to launch on mission STS-101 from Kennedy Space Center at 4:15 p.m. EDT Monday. There is a 60 percent chance of a weather delay. During the more than nine-day mission, astronauts will conduct maintenance and logistics work aboard the International Space Station in advance of the arrival of the Russian Zvezda Service Module, scheduled for launch in July. Atlantis is set to return to Kennedy on May 4.

Marshall welcomes Jeff Murray, chief of staff for U.S. Rep. Bud Cramer

NASA Exchange book fair, 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Tues.-Fri., Bldg. 4203, room 1201

Project startup, project implementation classes set

Two project management classes are scheduled at Marshall. Project startup, May 1-5, teaches the processes used at Marshall to develop new products, systems, sub-systems and capabilities. Project implementation, June 19-23, focuses on executing a baselined project using NASA program and management systems requirements. For information, call 544-8864.

Volunteer on the Web to work Open House

Marshall employees who wish to volunteer to work during the Open House should register on the Web site at:
<http://ntf-1.msfc.nasa.gov/ohvols.nsf>

Monday is 10-year anniversary of Hubble Space Telescope